

HUNTER SHOT NEAR MOKENA, DIES

JOLIET MAN
IS HUNTING
ACCIDENT VICTIM

Harry Fox, 40 years old, Patterson road, died at 5 o'clock Monday morning at Silver Cross hospital from gunshot wounds received Sunday as a result of a hunting accident on the Rose Moriarty farm, one mile west of Mokena.

Mr. Fox was shot in the legs and the shock and loss of blood caused his death. He and two nephews, LaVerne Fox, 18 years old, and Wilber Fox, 22 years old, were hunting on the Moriarty farm which is operated by Jay R. Butler.

Fall Discharges Gun
The three hunters were walking single file across a field. Harry Fox was walking in front. Behind him was LaVerne Fox. LaVerne slipped and the jar discharged his gun.

Most of the charge struck Fox in the right thigh, almost severing the limb. One of the nephews remained with Fox and the other ran to the Butler home for assistance. Fox was carried to the house and Dr. Ernest G. McMahon of Mokena called.

Shock Proves Fatal
Dr. McMahon found Fox suffering from shock and had him removed to Silver Cross hospital. Fox was wounded between 10 and 10:30 o'clock and it was 12 o'clock when he reached the hospital. He was unconscious and little hope was held out at that time for his recovery.

His body was taken to the Western Undertaking parlors and funeral services were held Thursday.
Mr. Fox is survived by his widow Mrs. Esther Fox; three sons, James, Donald and Harry Jr., one daughter Vera; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fox; four brothers, William, Walter and Frank of Joliet and Elias of Norwood, and one sister Mrs. Mabel Bruch, Joliet.

MRS. H. STEGE, Jr.
TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. H. Stege, Jr., of Sedan Prairie, died Thursday, January 24th at her home. She was taken ill with the flu three weeks ago which later developed into pneumonia.

Frieda Stege, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kampe, was born Jan. 30th, 1899.

On June 22, 1919 she was united in marriage with Henry Stege, Jr., a World War veteran. This union was blessed with five children, Harold, Melvin, Marion, George and Anita.

Funeral services were held last Sunday afternoon at the St. Paul Ev. Lutheran church at Sedan Prairie, the Rev. F. Treskow officiating. He preached a very comforting sermon. There were many beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. Stege was an unusual charming woman. She had a kind word and a smile for everybody. The great course of people which filled the edifice to overflowing, attested to the high esteem in which she was held.

She leaves to mourn her untimely death, besides her husband and children, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kampe, four brothers, Otto, Theodore, Henry, and George, one sister, Alma, and many other relatives and friends.

Bond Issue Taxes
Must Be Paid

The injunction suit which was filed recently by Joliet citizens to restrain the Will County Board of Supervisors from selling the hard road bonds voted on November 6 for the paving of 58 miles of road in Will County, has not come up for a hearing and no date has been set when the case will be heard. The complainants declare that if the court decides in favor of the county board they will take the case to the Supreme Court. As a result of this legal squabble no work can be done on the proposed county hard road system, but the property owners of the county will have to pay taxes on this bond just the same regardless of how long the case may lay in court.

Two weeks ago a similar bond issue for about $700,000 was put to a vote in Grundy county and was defeated. Many Will county citizens feel that this county would have been better off had the Will County bond issue been defeated. With the passing of a 3 cent gas tax by the state, enough money will be raised so that all secondary and connecting roads can be built without burdening the people with a bond issue tax. The proponents of the Will county bond issue were almost in a frenzy to get the bond issue and anyone opposed to their views, was looked upon as a sort of a heretic. The issue went over but the roads which were promised for this year will most likely not be built if the injunction suit against the sale of the road bonds drags along much longer.

JAMES MOSS
SEES THRILLER

To the Editor:
Not having seen many of friends since Nov. 5, 1928, the day of our celebration, I thought they might like to hear from me. I will attempt to give a real thrill. Some sport news.

First, I will say we live 1000 feet on the east side of Cedar Lake which is 3 miles long 1/2 mile across at center near Monon depot and a mile across at each end. The water is about 20 feet deep in the middle.

During a good cold night with no wind, the lake will freeze over in about 3 hours or one night. This winter I noticed it mostly froze over, except in two spots. I noticed them to be unfrozen for several days. They were where the wind could reach them thru an unprotected opening, so that it kept the waves working. At the same time it was cold and the ice that got a start on freezing, got to be quite a thickness. Before these spots or strips finally froze. Now everything is covered and there is a good start for the lake to freeze solid. But of course the thicker ice along this has been onen water strips is much the strong est. The heavy ice expands and finally squeezes the strip of light ice until it finally buckles quite high, holding it away from water, there it will get no thicker.

This one place I now am going to mention in particular is about 400 ft long and the amount of thinner ice that broke was between 30 and 40 feet wide. It had bulged up about 2 feet and while the ice men were putting up ice 14 inches thick a short distance from this bulge, possibly 80 rods, and I might say this bulge in the ice had not been noticed, and the lake had been considered safe and solid, and at such times the boys like to drive automobiles on the lake for there is no limit to speed.

On Sunday, January 13th I was out in the yard when I thought I heard an airplane. Then it sounded so close to the ice I thought it was an ice boat, at least it went like a streak of lightning, have heard 70 miles an hour. It was a large car when it started, but when it hit this high spot in the ice, it proved to be an airplane for the moment. It made a jump of about 30 feet. When it landed the hind axle and wheels dropped thru the ice on the edge of the heavy ice at the same time there was an explosion of the air pocket, causing a cloud of steam. The chassis of the car failed to go any further, but the body with the 3 boys kept on going. The body stripped clean of the chassis, skated down the ice. The boys were unhurt. The wreckage was brought in the next day.

This is one of the thrills we get on Cedar Lake ice. So come on boys and have a good time. I think the speed in the instance related saved the two boys.

We are well, warm and comfortable at this writing. Should this miss the scrap basket, I may write another letter a little later. Will close with best wishes, from

Dairymen Launch
Membership Drive

Since the recent big milk strike, the dairymen of the Chicago dairy district have come to know the power of organization. The dairy territory close in to Chicago, like Tinley Park, Orland, Frankfort and Mokena have not been so well organized as in other parts of the territory and as a result the Pure Milk Association is putting on an intensive membership drive to organize this section 100 per cent. A big meeting was held at the St. Mary hall in Mokena to get the drive under way, Monday night, John Cryder of Plainfield was the principal speaker of the evening. It is said that all but eleven of the fifty-five dairy farmers close to Mokena have joined the Pure Milk Association. A concerted drive is on all of this week to get all the dairy farmers in Frankfort township on the Pure Milk Association membership list. There are about 145 dairy farmers in Frankfort township. A mass meeting of the dairymen will be held at Frankfort Saturday evening of this week.

The Town Doctor

SAYS

MANY CITIES LIKE TOPSY HAVE "JUST GROWN"

In the past, the mental genius of the entire country has been devoted to invention, and the creating and studying of scientific manufacturing and production methods—a mechanical age with very little thought, comparison, to the analysis of the community. Now it is recognized that constructive thinking to towns and the individuals making up the community has been accorded industry.

What was, isn't! The museums are full of those things thought indispensable a few years ago. Consider the case of the dinosaur or the Tyrannosaurus that had the strength of a steam engine, or the Gigantosaurus that was over a hundred feet long and as big as a house, as an example. They ceased to serve a useful purpose—there was no reason for them so they ceased to exist.

These things that were, but are not now, did not know they were "slipping", could not help themselves, so cannot be blamed—they could not think, therefore a warning of their predicament was useless. Men individually and collectively are capable of thinking, therefore, if they, their business, or their towns verge on the edge of the old order of things, they alone are to blame. Having the powers of comprehension, a hint as to the new order of things should be sufficient.

Yet, man with all of his brains retains those things in his makeup that tends to make one picture those creatures of the long ago. With some, it is procrastination and prejudice, while with others it is just plain every-day refusal to think!

There is a new order of things. Look around you—you will see it on every side. Business, industry, know it—you can't help but recognize it. But look at your town! Has it kept pace? Most towns have just ridden along on the crest of the wave—like Topsy's, have "just grown", with little or no thought, consideration, or analysis that is vital to continued growth, expansion and prosperity.

A town is a business—your business. You are a part of that business the same as an employee is of an industrial plant. Your bread and butter depends on the continued growth and prosperity of that business, and regardless of your station in life—regardless of the job you hold, the work you do or the business you are in, you are responsible.

As an employee of a manufacturing plant you are a part of it; you must do good work, you must be sold on the product made or you are fired. The better the work you do, the more you make. As a part of your town, the same is true.

You should know about your town—it is yours, and what you do goes to make it a good town, a progressive town or—a bum town. You may think your town is not a good town—maybe it isn't; maybe it is "old-fashioned", maybe it has "just grown"—but what have you done to make it any different? A town is just as big as the people in it, and you are the people!

It is not the opinions and habits of the few shining lights that made a community. True, there must be leaders, but when big industries, enterprises, etc., it is the people in general they are the most interested in—you and all the other people like you.

Never in the history of this country has the smaller city—your town—had the opportunities that it has today. Big business is looking to the smaller city as it never has before. The town or city that prepares itself for big things will greatly profit, and every individual citizen will be benefited—but the town must be ready. The way to be ready is to be at work—building up the morale, aggressiveness, customer attitude and salesmanship ability of the "clerk"—citizens—of the community—not by erection of monuments or idle talk on "Town Boosting"—but by constructive thinking to do something, get something, achieve something—to climb out of the rut, to have a city that is THE BEST IN THE LAND in which to live, work, play and make money—to have a city which has eliminated the "oppressive ugliness" of dormant, inactive civic pride.

What are you going to do about it?

The cost for shooting a pheasant out of season is rather expensive as a hunter from Evergreen Park has come to learn. He shot a pheasant on the farm of Albert Strassenberg about two weeks ago. His case had been continued while an investigation was made. It was found that he has a large family and is in needy circumstances so the court was lenient with him and left him off with a $25 fine.

Jacob W. Epstein, Dem. of the Seventeenth district, who collected $416.66 monthly as a lake level investigator. He was appointed June 23, 1925, and dismissed April 30, 1927. He was sponsored by Trustees Crowe, Whalen, and Rosenberg. Epstein lives at 810 Roosevelt road.

No Petition Filed
To Abolish Mokena
Vehicle Tax

The big fire works which were anticipated to take place at the January meeting of the Mokena village board by the presentation of a petition signed by the auto owners in the village limits asking the board to abolish the 1929 vehicle license, failed to materialize when Edward Schenkel who has been circulating the petition failed to appear before the board. Only routine business was transacted at the meeting which was held Wednesday evening.

Worth Goodfellow-
ship Elects Officers

The Goodfellowship club held their annual meeting and election of officers last week. The club has had rather an interesting development in the last three years. Most ministers in organizing a mens club center it around their church activity but in keeping with his conception of the churches place in the community life Rev. Sanders conceived a new idea for such an organization.

The primary idea that Rev. Sanders has held since coming into the community was that the community was the thing to be served. The church exists for that end to serve the people and not to be served for itself. In keeping with this idea a little over three years ago he called together 12 men who were leaders in the community life and told them his conception of the need of a church and community men's organization.

The following week all the men of the community were invited in and Dr. Beck of Evanston was invited to address them concerning their opportunity in community life. It was agreed to organize a mens club.

A constitutional committee was appointed and officers were elected. Mr. Harold Ferrin was elected president, Mr. B.F. Rolfe Secretary-Treasurer and Mr. Elmer Litke Vice President. Under the guidance of these officers the club has prospered. It has weathered the storms that all new organizations face and has rendered district service to the church and community. It was from this club that the building association was organized that has built the new model homes for the city—London.

It has sponsored the Christmas Tree each year, sponsored most of the improvements and has to aid in the good road.

The officers who carry a five-hour these two successful years is one, and from office and the folout of it completed in their place. This method Macaulay was elected secretary, Mr. Perry Bishop secretary, Louis Beidenkopf treasurer and the Wm. Little vice-president. The men will carry on the fine program so nobly begun.

Causes of Auto
Accidents Many

Here are a few paragraphs taken at random from the daily press in regards to auto drivers carelessness:

Fathers who forbid their minor sons and daughters to drive the family automobile are liable for damages if the children disobey the parent, take the car and have an accident, a Buffalo judge finds.

A case of that character was disposed of by Justice Charles Brown of Buffalo, who refused to set aside a verdict of $2,000 for the plaintiff who was struck and injured.

Merely refusing children permission is not enough, Justice Brown declared, but it must be enforced by the parent making every possible effort to keep the car away from them.

The number of intoxicated automobile drivers in New Jersey has increased.

THE STORY

Webster Brond, scout and spy for Braddock's army, secures valuable information at Fort Duquesne, but Braddock, trained in European warfare, fails to realize its importance. Brond is sent back to Fort Duquesne and is also entrusted with a message to Groghan, the English emissary among the Indians. He is accompanied by Round Paw, friendly Indian scout. On the way they are joined by a backwoodsman, Cromit. The party comes upon a group of settlers threatening a young girl, Elsie, Dinwold, whom they accuse of witchcraft. Brond rescues her and she disappears. Brond delivers his message to Groghan. Young Col. George Washington rescues the scout from bullying English soldiers. Brond proceeds on a scouting expedition to Fort Duquesne and finds a French scouting party besieging an old cabin in which Elsie has taken refuge. In the ensuing fight she escapes. Brond takes his way to Duquesne. Carrying out his plan to enter the fort unopposed, Brond visits an Indian town where a woman, Allaquipa, controls the French cause. Brond finds Elsie Dinwold, dressed as a man, under Allaquipa's protection. The girl tells him she has found the English cruel, and is going to the French.

His face became convulsed and her small teeth were bared in a snarl. "Let us both talk to Mr. Braddock, should he be the Frenchman. Have you about the fight at the fort? And what became of the Frenchman you saw? That's a vastly important question, isn't it?"

Her mad words recalled me to my danger. "I will say nothing to Falest. You will hold your tongue about me. I am going to Duquesne as a Frenchman. If you see me there you will not know me."

She stared at me in silence and the anger vanished from her face. "I shall not know you," she softly assured me. "But if they find out you are English your life—"

"Won't be worth a ninepence," I completed.

"Don't go!" she suddenly pleaded. "They'll find out. They'll hand you over to their Indians. Start back now and meet the army."

I shook my head. "Will you take me back until we meet the army?" she pleaded.

That could not be, for my duty sent me to Duquesne.

"I'll gladly send you back under safe escort. Round Paw the Onondaga is with me. He shall be one of the Indians to take you back," I offered.

"But you will not go? Good! I care nothing for the French nor the English. Say no more to me, or I'll tell Falest that you are an English scout."

And she walked among the cabins in the direction Allaquipa had taken. I started to find Falest and to arrange traveling with him and the girl to the fort, but before I could reach his cabin the Onondaga glided by me, his blanket over his head, and in passing he murmured:

"Follow."

He was making for the woods. I shifted my course and carelessly stroled toward the mouth of the Duquesne path. I followed the path deep into the damp growth until I found him waiting for me.

"What shadow now falls upon us?" I impatiently demanded.

"They have found the Huron bearer of bells. The Wolf's paw was too heavy. It broke his head."

"The man is dead?"

He considered the question to be a waste of so many words.

"It is better so," I said. "Round Paw's orenda wished it so and gave great strength to the flat of the ax. It is better the Huron is a ghost."

If my words gave him any comfort, he did not show it. After more staring at the branches over his head he said:

"Another Frenchman is near the village. My white brother has crossed his trail once. They say the man who breaks bones with his hands was asleep. They say his hands grew very weak."

his eyes lighted when I pronounced sentence upon Beauvais. More composedly I said: "I will stay out in the woods while my red brother scouts the village and learns from some of the Delawares what Beauvais plans to do."

"Beauvais will talk with the other Frenchman."

But this inevitable meeting did not worry me much. Falest had met me at Duquesne as Beland. Cromit's escaped prisoner had never seen me until we fought in the cabin. He knew me only as a provincial. But should Beauvais see me at Duquesne I would become a plaything for the Ottawas and other fierce children of the north. At all risks, the man must be prevented from returning to the fort, or else I must cancel my promise to Colonel Washington and keep away from the forks of the Ohio.

Round Paw suggested that I follow the path for a mile or two and then hide and wait for him to bring fresh

It Was Dreary Waiting, and Yet I Was Glad to Be Alone, as I Had a Grave Problem to Solve.

news from the village. He proposed boldly to enter the village and trust to his blanket to conceal his identity from Beauvais. This was a good plan and after exhorting him to be a fox instead of a wolf I started up the trail.

Round Paw soon rejoined me, and I asked for news of Beauvais.

"He is at the village and starts for Duquesne after one sleep."

"Tomorrow morning," I murmured.

"The witch-woman and the other Frenchman start tonight. Allaquipa has told the Frenchman to go. She is angry because he brought milk to the Len-Lenape. A hunter told me this. Your brother has not been to the village."

"Then I must wait out here in the woods until Beauvais has taken the Duquesne path," I decided.

"I will be eyes and ears for my white brother," he assured me.

He turned from the trail and found a snug hiding place within pistol shot of the village and said for me to remain there while he procured food.

It was dreary waiting and yet I was glad to be alone, as I had a grave problem to solve. Beauvais must not betray me at Duquesne; therefore, Beauvais must not reach the fort. To waylay him and shoot him from ambush was not within my scruples. It must be a fair fight, yet one to the death.

As it grew dark and the fires in the village were lighted I left my hiding place and crept to the edge of the forest to watch for the Onondaga's return. I had not been there long before two figures suddenly came up by the mouth of the path and entered the black cover within a rod of where I was crouching. Their identity was established by a young voice saying:

"I was willing to go back and try the English again even if they have been mortal cruel to me but it couldn't be that way. So, mister, I'll try the French. They ain't silly enough to believe in witches, I hope."

"No, no, mademoiselle. Once they see you properly attired they will say you are beautiful. You will be very happy with the French."

Half an hour later the Onondaga brought to my hiding place a kettle of meat and a gourd of water. The kettle he had stolen from the cabin of a drunken warrior.

"The witch-woman and the Frenchman are on the path to Duquesne," he added. "They will be far on their journey by morning."

"Round Paw must have the ears of a wolf when the sun comes back. The older Frenchman must not reach Duquesne," I told him.

"Yo-hah! My white brother is very wise, like the owl. They say a Frenchman will die very quick after the next sun shines upon him. The wolf's ear will be open and his teeth are very sharp."

CHAPTER VI

Dubious Faring

It was dark in the woods when I awoke and I was weighted down by the realization that I must halt a brave man and kill him, or be killed by him. The Onondaga came to his feet and proceeded to build a fire under the kettle of cooked meat so that I might have something hot to eat before entering upon my strange duel.

I told him he was to have no part in the morning's grim work. It required some minutes to win him over, for his red mind could not comprehend why a man should scorn an advantage when attacking an enemy. He feared French witchcraft was at work, for why abandon a certainty and foolishly risk life? The one result desired was the death of the Frenchman before he reached Duquesne. And there were two of us to give him his quietus. He consented to leave the issue to me only after I said that my orenda told me in a dream I must make the fight single-handed.

I ate a little warm meat and smoked my pipe while the Onondaga scouted the edge of the woods. At last he was back on the run, warning:

"He leaves the village. It is only half-light even in the opening, but the Wolf man's eyes are very sharp. He carries a long gun like my brother's."

"Round Paw of the Wolf clan, you must tell me you will not take part in this fight so long as I am alive," I said to him.

He sighed regretfully and sullenly replied:

"This is the first fight between the French and English where the red man is not wanted. My brother shall take the scalp alone."

The Frenchman was taking his time and with never a thought that his advance would be disputed. Some ten minutes passed, and I was finding I could see quite distinctly as far as the first bend in the trail, when the calm of the woods was shattered by two rifle shots a second apart. Cursing aloud I leaped to my feet and glared down the path in the direction of the village.

The Onondaga had been unable to resist his racial instincts and had cut in ahead of me. Even in my anger I was amazed that he should have done this, for red or white, there was no man whose word I would accept ahead of the Onondaga's. I could only explain it by believing the Indian had betrayed himself by some bit of carelessness. The two shots, so close together, proved the Frenchman had not been caught off his guard; but what of them had fired the last shot? Five minutes lagged by, and I should have started an investigation if not for the sound of footsteps. One man was coming up the path on the run and any flimsy notions I had had about slaying the Frenchman vanished on my discovering this man was white. No Indian would run as did this fellow.

I had no time to lament over Round Paw's passing out, for in another moment the fellow would be turning the bend a few rods away. His gun would be empty, I believed, and I stood my rifle against a tree and pulled my ax. Then the steps reached the bend, and the next second a tall form was bearing down upon me. Lifting my ax I leaped into the path and cried:

"Halt, monsieur! This path is closed."

Forms of Salutation That Seem Peculiar

If some one should approach you and say, "How do you perspire?" or ask you if you have eaten your rice, don't be offended. These are the words by which the Egyptians and Chinese say "How do you do?" when they meet an acquaintance.

All races have their own peculiar forms of salutation. On islands near the Philippines natives grasp the foot of the person they wish to greet and gently rub their faces with it. South Sea Islanders rub noses and exchange gifts, while the Moors kiss each other's shoulders.

"How is your strength?" was the greeting in ancient Rome, where every man was a warrior. The Greeks, with other things than war on their minds, said, "What business are you engaged in?"

The Frenchman's "I am charmed and enchanted to meet monsieur" is difficult to improve upon. "How do you find yourself?" is the German's greeting, and when a guest rises from table they express the hope that he has had a hearty meal and that he will find himself the better for the cheer of the repast.

Quick muscular energy in KARO

KARO is a delicious food—but more—it is a real energy food.

There are 120 calories per ounce in Karo—almost twice the energy-giving value of eggs and lean beef, weight for weight.

No effort to digest Karo is required as in many other staple foods.

Which means, Karo supplies energy quickly.

And this is important to those who work and play hard. Especially good is Karo for growing children, as your doctor can tell you.

Serve plenty of Karo—keep the folks healthy, happy and satisfied.

Politician and Statesman
"Are you a politician or a statesman?"
"Both," answered Senator Sorghum.
"In order to gain any positive influence as a statesman you are obliged sometimes to assert yourself as a politician."

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.

The doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois.

Hungary to Use Films in Educational Work

Pupils of all grades in Hungary will be compelled to view educational films, according to recent decrees of the ministry of public education. By the terms of its concession the Hungarian Dutch Pedagogical company must arrange for all primary, grammar, higher grades and agricultural post-graduate schools, excepting the municipal schools of Budapest, one exhibition each month of the school year. The programs are to be supervised by the ministry of public education. The minister of the interior has directed that in places not having motion pictures, theaters must arrange to show the pictures. The films will be shown during regular school hours, and each child is taxed an annual admission fee of 40 cents, or 5 cents a film.

Lanes Across Ocean

When crossing the Atlantic, and looking day after day across the vast, plowed-field of waters, it is hard for the landsman to realize that there are "lanes" to which vessels are supposed to keep strictly. Yet each line of steamers has its own route fixed by agreement, and adhered to by careful use of the compass. But some captains, it seems, are inclined to "cut corners," and on "lanes" which cross and recross this is a source of danger. Also the large number of crossings is in itself risky. So a replanning of routes has been suggested by insurance companies. Safety First!

America's "Red Sea"

Once crystal clear and pure, the water of a small lake 15 miles south of Maricopa, Calif., is now blood red and is so strongly impregnated with minerals as to be unfit for drinking purposes. The phenomenon attracted the attention of chemists at the University of California, and they say the coloring of the water is due to the same vegetation, scientifically known as diatoms, that gave the Red sea of Biblical renown its name.

If Back Hurts Begin on Salts

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has begun an accounting of Illinois' financial and political stock in the eleven departments under the state code. He sent to the directors of the various departments letters requesting a report on the number of persons on their pay rolls, together with the amount of money appropriated by the last general assembly and the balance on hand January 15.

The order was sent out so that the governor may become familiar with the finances of each department and gain an insight of the number of persons on the pay rolls, the duties they perform, and the salaries they receive.

Governor Emmerson has made several appointments to his cabinet and their various departments.

Henry H. Kohn, Anna, succeeds Leslie Small, Kankakee, as director of purchases and construction. Mr. Kohn was state purchasing agent under the administration of former Governor Lowden and retained the same place for two years under Governor Small. Mr. Kohn is a merchant at Anna and has been active in Republican politics for many years.

Garrett DeF. Kinney, Peoria, has been appointed director of finance, to succeed A. C. Bollinger, Waterloo, resigned. Director Kinney, who will be in charge of the state finance department, retired recently as state treasurer. He has been active in politics for many years.

Leo H. Lowe, for many years editor of the Kewanee Star Courier, is the new director of the department of trade and commerce and succeeds H. U. Bailey, editor and publisher of the Princeton Bureau County Republican. Three years ago Mr. Lowe disposed of his newspaper interests and retired from active newspaper work. He has since devoted himself largely to politics and during the last primary and election campaigns was manager of the interests of Governor Emmerson in Henry county.

Mrs. Clara Phillips, Springfield, who has been serving as personal secretary to Governor Emmerson for the past four years while he was secretary of state, has been retained in the same capacity in the new administration. She is a former resident of Quincy.

Governor Emmerson has received the resignation of O. T. Olsen, superintendent of the division of plant industry of the department of agriculture. A number of men have been proposed for this position but Governor Emmerson is feeling his way slowly and an appointment may not be made for some time.

Discussion of revenue bills, which have to do with Cook county, has been brought before the house of representatives by various organizations and officials. Representative Michael Igoe said that reassessments were in progress in Cook and Champaign counties and that no collections could be made until the matter had been decided. The pending bills pertaining to Chicago increase the salary of experts and also extend the time for making collections.

The governor has received the resignation of Gus Radebaugh as director of the department of conservation, but has not indicated when a successor will be named or who he will be. Resignations have also been received from Col. C. R. Miller, Kankakee, director of the department of public works and buildings; T. Barney Thompson, Rockford, member of the state parole board; and George W. Pillow, Marion, as assistant commerce commissioner.

State Senator A. S. Cuthbertson, Bunker Hill, has introduced a bill in the state senate providing for the repeal of an act of the last session, legalizing horse racing in Illinois. The measure will be referred to a committee when it is named. Repeal of the act has been urged by a number of organizations in the state but indications point to an interesting contest when the measure reaches the passage stage.

Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield has introduced a group of bills including amendments to the election laws making fraud punishable by prison term; requiring affidavits on all warrants of the state, county and municipal employees, that the affiant performed services for money received and repealing the act of the last session giving the director of trade and commerce authority to name receivers for insolvent insurance companies.

Senator James J. Barbour has presented to the assembly a bill establishing a criminal court for the city of Chicago; the bill is said to have the endorsement of a large number of organizations. The proposed court will permit a speedy trial for criminals. The measure is one of many which will be offered in the present fight against Chicago crime. Mr. Barbour also offered a measure providing for the segregation of mental defectives with criminal propensities. These measures will be sponsored by the judiciary committee.

Reorganization of the publicity committee of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce is being effected. H. L. Williamson, secretary of the Illinois Press association, Springfield, is chairman of this committee for 1929. A number of new names are being added. Those who have accepted duties as new members to date, are: Herschel Blazer, Aledo Times-Record; Roy Clippinger, Carmi Tribune-Times; James Dertinger, Bushnell Record; L. R. Blackman, Moline Dispatch; Mrs. Allyn V. Carpenter, Lincoln Star-Courier; Paul B. Cousley, Alton Telegraph; C. F. Eichenauer, Quincy Herald-Whig; D. W. Grandon, Sterling Gazette; John H. Harrison, Danville Commercial-News; Verne E. Joy, Centralia Sentinel; Frank H. Just, Waukegan News; F. M. Lindsay, Decatur Herald; W. W. Loomis, LaGrange Citizen; Davis Merwin, Bloomington Pantagraph; John W. Potter, Rock Island Argus; A. M. Snook, Aurora Beacon-News; A. W. Shipton, Illinois State Journal, Springfield; Fred E. Sterling, Rockford Register-Gazette; Walter A. Strong, Chicago Daily News; Seymour Oakley, Peoria Star; R. R. Denison, Lawrenceville Record; John F. Fisher, Cairo Citizen, and Lester B. Colby, secretary of Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer, Bloomington, has offered a bill providing that duplicates of every public pay roll shall be open for public inspection. A bill proposed by Senator A. S. Cuthbertson, Bunker Hill, appropriates $18,305.16 to the village of Gillespie for the construction of a connecting link of the Springfield-St. Louis hard road. Senator Norman G. Flagg has introduced a bill providing that county treasurers shall receive bids for the deposit of public moneys.

Reapportionment, the subject of long debate in former sessions, is again in the form of a joint resolution for the appointment of a committee of eight to make a study of the question and submit a report to the assembly. The resolution, offered by Representative John C. Garriott, Chicago, specifies that the members of the committee shall be named by the speaker of the house and the president of the senate and that four of the eight shall be from Cook county.

As his private secretary, Governor Emmerson has appointed F. L. "Jack" Abbey of Biggsville. Mr. Abbey is a former assistant chief clerk in the office of the secretary of state. Prior to that time he was employed in the state auditor's office. He is a son of former State Representative Frank Abbey, Biggsville.

Making his first public address since his inauguration, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson told the Old-Time Printers' association of Chicago what he thought Benjamin Franklin would do if he were governor of Illinois. "He would try to develop the educational institutions," Governor Emmerson ventured, "and he would strive to effect economies so that taxation might be reduced. He would seek to simplify our laws and would be an ardent advocate of public improvements. Our state institutions, caring for our unfortunate, would have his earnest solicitation. He would conduct a great humane administration."

Governor Emmerson is a friend of printers and newspaper men. The first money he ever earned was 50 cents a day on Saturdays for keeping the ink warm on an old-fashioned Washington flat-bed press. In his spare time he learned to stick type. The governor is thereby entitled to recognition as an old-time printer.

DeWitt W. Smith, eighty-four, pioneer resident and business man of the Capital city, and a former state legislator, died at his Springfield home a few days ago. Mr. Smith was instrumental in getting congress to pass a bill providing for the protection of domestic cattle from contagious disease. Laws for the protection of cattle in the western states were modeled after the passage of the Illinois law which Mr. Smith aided in passing in 1881. He served four years as president of the National Cattle Growers' association. He was a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln.

The senate is evidently taking Governor Emmerson's request to keep the session to ninety days seriously. Nearly every day the senate is in session twenty to forty bills are brought up for consideration. In the thirty or more measures offered a few days ago there were bills putting teeth in the criminal statutes, measures making public all state pay rolls and an income tax bill, offered by Senator Simon Lantz, Congerville.

An appropriation of $75,000 for providing adequate hospital facilities for former service men at the Jacksonville state institution was included in a group of bills offered in the senate a few days ago. The measure was presented by Senator William McCauley, Olney, chairman of the military committee of the senate.

Having spread only 30 miles into new territory the past season, the European corn borer is still 40 to 50 miles away from the eastern Illinois line, W. P. Flint, chief entomologist for the Illinois Natural History survey, reported recently. The season's spread was considered rather small he said. Additional evidence that a thorough cleanup of corn residue offers the most effective and practical control now known for the borer, was obtained in the research and experimentation during the last season, Mr. Flint stated.

THE HOLY SCRIPTURES

LESSON TEXT—II Tim. 3:14-17; Ps. 137-14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Bible.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Bible.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Read the Bible?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the Bible is For.

I. The Scriptures Are Divinely Inspired. (II Tim. 3:16).

The first thing to be settled concerning the Canonical Scriptures is their inspiration and authority. In the Scriptures God is at "sundry times and in divers manners" speaking to man (Heb. 1:1). Paul in this passage declares them to be "God breathed," meaning that the utterances of Holy Writ were God's breath in men's mouths. The Holy Scriptures do not merely contain the Word of God, but are in verity the message of God to men.

The main cause of the moral breakdown of society is that men have been robbed of their faith in the Bible as the authoritative message from God.

II. The Value of the Scriptures (II Tim. 3:14-17).

1. Able to make wise unto salvation (v. 15).

Salvation is in Christ alone. It is secured through faith in His finished work on the cross. True wisdom leads to Christ crucified, since there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved (Acts 4:12), and without the shedding of blood there is no remission (Heb. 9:22).

2. Disciplines the life (vv. 16, 17).

In this "doctrine" is set forth the necessary standard of conduct. The only place to find the teaching of God is in His Holy Word. It not only sets forth a standard of life, but it reproves—confutes error. The way to deal with error is not by denunciation but with a positive presentation of truth. The Word corrects (sets straight the dislocations of personal and social conduct), instructs in righteousness, and equips for service.

III. The Nature and Effects of God's Law (Psa. 19:7-11).

1. Perfect.
It is without flaw; converts and restores the soul; turns man back to holiness and to God.

2. Sure.
It is absolutely dependable. God cannot lie. Man's reasoning changes, but God's Word endures forever. It makes wise the simple. Not only does it make wise unto salvation, but wise regarding the legitimate things of this world.

3. Right.

The precepts and judgments of the Lord are expressions of absolute righteousness. They fill the believer with rejoicing.

4. Pure.
There is in it no mixture of error. It makes no compromise with that which is untrue. Because of this it enlightens the eyes.

5. Clean.

The Word affects the life. Its cleansing is from within and from without.

6. True and righteous.

The decisions of God's Word are true, without exception. The judgments of God's Word are unimpeachable. Because of these qualities God's Word is more to be desired than the choicest gold. Obedience thereto brings great reward.

IV. The Prayer of the Believer (Psa. 19:14).

The life brought face to face with God's Word is seen as sinful. The soul cries out for

1. Cleansing (v. 12.)

The perfect laws reveal the imperfections of the life. The Word of God reveals sins of which the individual may be ignorant (Isa. 6:5).

2. To be kept from presumptuous sin (v. 13).

Presumptuous, arrogant sins are peculiarly dangerous. In the Mosiac economy no sacrifice was provided for such sins.

3. Freedom from the dominion of such sins (v. 13).
How awful is the slavery of those who are in bondage to presumptuous sins.

4. That the words of the mouth and meditation of the heart be kept acceptable in God's sight. From how many dangers the believer would be freed if the words and meditations of the heart were kept in line with the Holy Scriptures.

Our Possessions

I will place no value on anything I have or possess, except in its relation to the Kingdom of Jesus Christ.—David Livingstone.

Let It Rather Be Healed

Lift up the hands that hang down, and the feeble knees; and make straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; but let it rather be healed.—Heb. 12:12, 13.

Hopelessness of Hypocrisy

For what is the hope of the hypocrite, though he hath gained, when God taketh away his soul? Will God hear his cry when trouble cometh upon him?—Job 27:8, 9.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Worth Knowing When Winter Cold Comes!

Did you ever hear of a five-hour remedy for colds? There is one, and it really does bring you out of it completely. Even if it's gripe, this method works, only takes longer. Pape's Cold Compound is in tablet form. Pleasant-tasting, but it surely has the "authority!"—Adv.

Of course, it one is always suspicious, one is sometimes right.

Practically all good talkers talk too much.

COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS

Helped By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fairhaven, Mass.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and I think it is a wonderful tonic. When I feel nervous and run-down my husband gets me a bottle right away. It is a great help to me and I think that if other people would only take it when they feel all run-down and take it as the directions say, they would find it a great benefit. My worst symptoms were nervousness and tired feelings. I could not sleep nights and I did not care about my work. I was so nervous I would cry if anyone looked at me."—Mrs. Ada Besse, 196 Washington Street, Fairhaven, Mass.

THE MILK STRIKE

The following editorial which appeared in the Chicago Journal of Commerce, January 22nd should be of particular interest to the dairymen of this section.

Organized dairy farmers in the vicinity of Chicago have asked milk dealers for an increase in the wholesale price. This has been refused. The dairy farmers have declared a strike.

As is usually the case in such a situation, a minority of farmers adhered to the organization while a majority preferred to manage their own affairs and proceed to sell milk. The organized minority has found that the refusal of its members to send milk to Chicago is not sufficient to deprive Chicago of milk nor to impose its demand on milk dealers and consumers.

The next step has been to resort to force. Hundreds of farmers have lined the highways with guns, clubs and pitchforks. Farmer's who prefer to manage their own affairs have been dragged from their trucks and beaten, while their milk was either poisoned or dumped on the highway. Trains have been stopped and the contents of milk tank cars have been drained on the right of way or polluted with kerosene. Law officers attempting to convoy milk trucks have been intimidated and forced to flee or submit to beatings.

Those who have been appointed to solve the farmers' problems and to impress upon the rest of the nation the measure of his distress, complain of sectional antagonism. They hold that the urban population is antagonistic to the farmer, that it has no understanding of his problems, and that it generally supports a program for the aggrandizement of industry and labor, for the reduction of the cost of living, and for the impoverishment of the farmer.

Generally speaking, the charge is untrue. There is in urban centers today a definite tendency on the part of the majority opinion to sympathize with the farmer and hope that something definite can be done to improve his estate, and to be willing to contribute to it. There is not in urban centers today any general cost of living consciousness, nor any resentment of the cost of foodstuffs. A scheme that would give the farmer a little more for the stuff he sells would meet with no organized resentment.

The conduct of farmers in this milk strike is the one certain method of developing class antagonism, the one sure way of breeding urban antagonism to agriculture.

Farmers are permitted by direct common agreement to go any length in fixing the price of the stuff they sell. They are exempted by law and by common consent from inhibitions that apply to other business. If the milk dealers of Chicago were to go on strike and refuse to sell any more milk until the public was willing to pay more money for it, those dealers promptly would be on their way to jail. Farmers may do the same thing under legal sanction.

But holding up a train to steal milk is robbery just as much as the train were held up to steal any other merchandise, or to rob the pockets of the passengers. Raiding an interstate train to pour kerosene into a carload of milk adds sabotage to hold up. Dragging an independent farmer off his truck and beating him for his milk, is assault and robbery.

We have developed in this country the tradition that our farmers are the backbone of the nation, that respect for law is a peculiar attribute of rural life, and that the right of the individual to freedom of opinion and action is more cherished in the open space than elsewhere.

There is a natural tendency even on the part of urban consumers to feel that these farmers have a just complaint; that they receive too little of the consumer's dollar for the stuff they sell; and that even if a bit must be added to the retail price, the farmer earns and is entitled to a higher quotation. But highway robbery, assault and sabotage will quickly destroy that sympathy and give substance to the class enmity which heretofore has been merely a figment of rural imagination.

The Story Of The Morning Star Mission

THE CHRISTMAS DINNER

A bountiful Christmas dinner, consisting of roast pork, dressing, baked beans, potatoes, vegetables and green things, minced pie and coffee was served at the Mission to 159 homeless and hungry men on Christmas day.

The dinner was served under the supervision of Mrs. C. S. Witwer, who for the past 16 years has supervised the preparing of the Yule dinner for the homeless men appearing at the Mission on Christmas day.

Mrs. Witwer was assisted by a corps of young men, consisting of Edward Relyea, Lawrence L. Meyer, Edward Martin, William F. Meyer, George Meyer, Griffith Kennelley, Andrew Witwer, Everett Williams, Clarence Olin, Elmer Swansbro and James Woodward.

The mince pie which topped off the Christmas repast was supplied by the women of St. John's Universalist Church, also in accordance with an annual custom.

TALES OF ACHIEVEMENT

The "forgotten" men who pass thru the Morning Star Mission day by day, year by year, come with despair in their hearts, but that despair is quickly dispelled by that man who glories in working for Christ, Peter McCarthy.

For hope seems to fairly radiate from the little Mission and many of those who come under the guiding hand of Director McCarthy are started on the upward path, becoming prosperous, upright citizens.

Some, as is only natural, do not greatly improve their material circumstances, but one and all are benefited by contact with the genial Mission man.

Almost daily Peter receives reminders from those he has aided. Some appear in person to tell of the good that has been done them by the Morning Star, while others rely upon the written word.

Following will be just a few examples of Peter McCarthy's good work:

RELIGION DOES PAY

If there are those who doubt whether it pays to be a Christian one should listen to the story of Walter Mozen. Walter who is just 12 years old, appeared at the Mission service conducted June 26, 1928. He listened with close attention to Director McCarthy's short sermon. Then he came forward, and on his knees, accepted Christ.

Two days later the boy again appeared at the Morning Star and was called upon to give his testimony. "I accepted Christ on Tuesday night and the next day when I was walking down the street I found a $5 bill. I gave it to my mother and she bought me some clothes. I know it pays to be a Christian" Walter told his smiling audience.

GLAD HE WAS CRAZY

The particular brand of religion preached by "Pete" McCarthy not only makes men glad they have acquired it, but also makes them proud to admit the fact, as the following testimony, given by a "tourist", Charles A. Smith, a cook by trade, indicates.

"I repented of my sins at the Morning Star Mission, February 15, and gave my heart to Jesus. Mr. McCarthy asked me if I meant it, and I said, 'Sure I do'; and I did mean it. "Three days later another tourist said: 'I heard you were converted at the Morning Star Mission.' And I said 'Yes'. Then he said to me: 'Did you mean it?' and I replied: 'Yes, sure I meant it.' Then he said to me 'You're Crazy.' And I replied to that man: 'If this is the way you feel when you're crazy, I am glad I am crazy, and I'm sorry I wasn't crazier several years ago.'"

GOOD FROM A DIME

There are many mothers throughout the United States who murmur the name of Peter McCarthy in their nightly prayers, for he has come to the aid of many youths, who, seized with the wanderlust, quit their homes in quest of adventure and find instead only hunger and cold.

One day last fall Peter was standing at his "downtown office" when he saw a boy of 16 years, hunger clearly stamped upon his face, standing close by.

"Pete" reached his hand into a pocket, but could find only a dime. It was not much, but the mission man knew it would help and he motioned the youth to him, handed him the dime, and said, "Here, go buy a couple of hot dogs and then come back and we'll talk business."

A smile, probably the first in several days, appeared on the boy's face and he nodded happily. A short time later he returned, with the result that Peter sent him to his home in Greenfield, Indiana. Later, "Pete" received the following letter from the youth's mother:

Mr. P. H. McCarthy, Joliet, Ill.
Dear Sir:

Just a few days ago you gave a hungry boy a dime to buy himself something to eat. He said you could not know how he appreciated it, and as the boy is my son I am writing you to thank you.

You also gave him a little book, the Gospel of St. John. That sure was nice of you. I've tried to rear my children to reverence the bible, and it was sure nice of you to do so.

My boy had taken a hiking trip, as boys will do, and I don't think he had eaten for a day or so when he met you. He is now home with me and glad of it.

In closing, I want to thank you again for your kindness to my boy and will always remember you.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs. Cora E. Riggsbee.

The Morning Star Mission has been the turning point in the road for many, and the memory of a night spent at the Mission lingers long with those who have appealed to its superintendent for aid and received not only that for which they came but religion as well.

These points are well brought out in the following letters, received by Mr. McCarthy from a man and wife, stranded in Joliet, whom he sent to their home in Cannonsburg, Penn.

BOTH FOUND HAPPINESS

Dear Mr. McCarthy:

We arrived home safe after a long, tiresome ride. I read my little Testament regularly and find it a wonderful book. I also want to tell you how we enjoyed that night at your Mission.

We learned something when we went there. My husband was always a good man, but now he is ever so much more good to me. I never hear a cross word from him now and he is always considerate.

You were our best friend and we want to thank you again with all our hearts for what you've done for us.

Your faithful friend,

Mrs. John Ondrik.

Dear Friend:

We have been so happy since the day we came to you and asked you to help us and I just don't know how we can ever thank you for what you have done.

I have one thing to say, and that is this: I have learned from you and the others who were at the Mission that night that love for others is the greatest thing in the world. I have learned that people must love each other and believe in Jesus Christ, for it is the only way.

My wife and I are sending you many blessings and thanks for your kindness. What you taught me in those few minutes has changed my entire life and I'm going to see that I stick to my promises, for I know they're right.

Your Friend Always,

John Ondrik.

FALL STREET FROCK

Smartly distinctive is this youthful street frock with the pointed motif of the buttoned-over upper-fronts repeated in the lower sections of the blouse and the front of the skirt. The four-piece circular skirt which joins the blouse at a low waistline is just what they are wearing on the fashionable boulevards of Paris at this autumn season. This frock is especially stunning in the new woolen fabrics which are enjoying such popularity in the present day mode, such as tweed, covert, angora cloth, wool crepes, and figured challis.

EDITORIAL SPOTLIGHT

HELLO, 1878!—Chicago (Ill.) Journal

Fifty years ago yesterday the people of Chicago, especially business and professional men, began to realize that something had taken place which made existence easier and pleasanter and the transaction of business much faster than before. It was no longer necessary for the banker to walk half a dozen blocks or summon his carriage in order to talk to another banker or a big patron. The professional man did not have to send a clerk or a messenger to communicate with a client if both had availed themselves of the new method of communication.

Even small boys who had held conversation over a long piece of string with the ends fastened to tin cans did not have to resort to such primitive methods if their homes had the new appliance.

In other words, fifty years ago yesterday the Bell telephone service was installed for business in Chicago with seventy-five phones.

Perhaps no other invention has done more for the development of social and business life than the telephone. At first, a luxury, it is now indispensable to the business and professional man and almost so in the home, where the cost is not a burden.

Improvements in the telephone itself have saved much time in its use, while the value to the public in dollars and cents is too great and too involved to be computed.

Those who attended the party last year realize what a novel affair it is. The whole family can come and have a good time. There will be good music, refreshments and a good floor to dance on. It will be given that night in connection with the program of National Drama Week. Everyone is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lange who are spending the winter in Pensacola, Florida are reporting a delightful time.

Blessings on thee, little dame,

And thy bobbed hair's jaunty grace,

From my heart I give thee joy,

Glad that I was born a boy.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any drug store has the genuine, prescriptive product.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

In 1918 I mailed them by the dozen boxes to Imperial Valley to a friend who was nursing down there during the 'Flu.' Children who are troubled with constipation, feverishness, bowel trouble or take cold easily, get quick relief from these powders that Mothers have recommended for over 30 years.

The doctors I had gave me no permanent relief. Some years afterward I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and now I am happy to say it restored my good health perfectly and since then I have had no such trouble. PARTY FROCK OF PRINTED RAYON; TUCK-IN BLOUSE IS APPROVED

MOST any time a telegram is apt to arrive from daughter away at school, which will perhaps read somewhat as follows: "Please send me right away, special delivery, a new party dress." This picture of a charming dance frock for a young girl is offered as "first aid" to mother in her dilemma when she receives the above S. O. S. call from the coed whose slightest wish is her command.

There is nothing prettier for youth

It has been threatening to come this many a day—the tuck-in blouse. True to its promise, it has arrived. Quite a few of the new ensembles and suits announce their advance styling in that they boast the tuck-in rather than the overblouse.

Good news, no doubt, to the youthfully slender, but to others not so good, that is, if the blouse be tucked in at the normal waistline. However, certain clever designers are making a than crisp flowered taffeta and there is nothing smarter at the moment than flower-printed taffeta—newer than printed velvet. In fact taffeta, moire and like stiff fabrics are the last word for evening. The new rayon taffetas are adorably designful, especially those which scatter roses and daisies and other quaint garden posies over a tinted background, as does the silk which fashions this lovely gown.

One of the delights of taffeta and kindred stiff fabrics which are so chic just now is that they do not require a whole lot of fussy dressmaking to show them up to advantage. Just the opposite is true of these now-fashionable crispy, sprightly silks. That's the beauty of the frock shown here—it can, so to speak, be made in a "jiffy" and at home, too, by mother or a by-the-day seamstress. The pattern is simplicity itself—a slender bodice with a very full skirt. The younger generation like this bouffant silhouette better than the formal princess lines. Scallops around the bottom of the skirt add attractiveness, while the big bow and sash streamers at the side impart a finishing style touch.

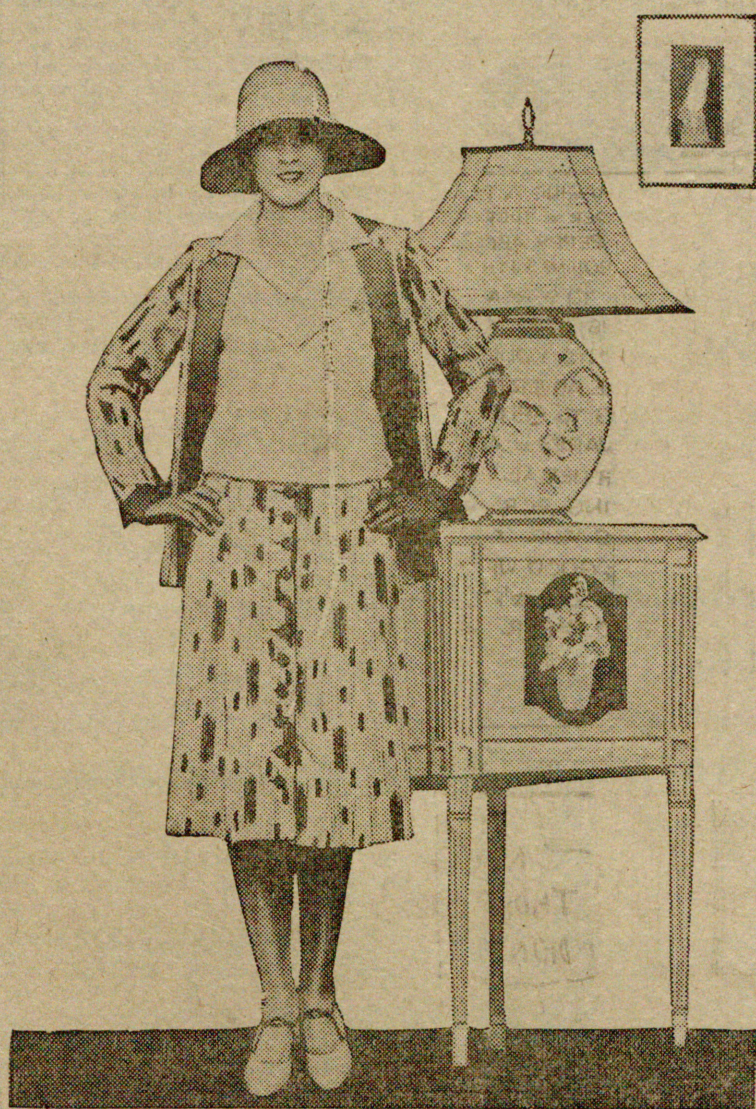

It would not be a bad idea to slip into the box with the dainty frock to daughter one of the large georgette play on the theme so as to give the impression of a low graceful waistline. That is, they manipulate the skirt with a loose or rather free edge at the top, fastening the blouse in with concealed clips or buttons. The belt is worn at the hipline, leaving a frill of the skirt above, and thus a low waistline is simulated.

In other instances the skirt is made with a yoke which fits snugly to the blouse adding to its beauty and emphasizing a very definite and somewhat drawn-in waistline.

Sports frocks of gay print for Southern resort wear are especially featuring the tailored washable tuck-in blouse. The model in the picture declares quite a few outstanding style points. One is that the hemline fullness is achieved by plaits stitched flat from the waistline. Another is the buttoning of the skirt down the front. The outlook is for a season of many buttons used both in a practical and a trimming way.

As to the short-jacket suit, it is presented in every phase this season, especially in print cottons, linens, rayons and silks for sports and informal wear. Fabric plays an important part or, rather, the combination of fabrics, in the designing of the short-jacket suits or costumes. Much interest is dance handkerchiefs which are such a fad at present. A lace-bordered one would be lovely, although printed ones are just as modish. One corner of these huge filmy squares is caught in the bracelet or even under the finger ring in such a way as to float out with that grace which adds to the picture. Silver slippers and nude hosiery are the answer to "what's what" in proper footwear to accompany this frock.

shown in suits made of heavy linen with striking design, the blouse being of the sheerest of sheer handkerchief linen.

New, also, but a vogue which is destined to be widespread is the use of twin prints, the same patterning applied to a sheer and an opaque fabric, the two used together.

Freight Figured in Pins

In a campaign of economy, R. Moore, general manager of the South African railways, has just issued a circular to employees showing the value of office supplies compared to freight haulage. The price of one pencil, he said, "corresponds to the charge made by the railway for transporting a bag of mealies 100 miles. To earn the price of a pot of glue the railway has to carry a bag of bran 200 miles. The cost of a package of pins is the same as the cost of transporting 100 pounds of fertilizer 100 miles."

How to Get Rid of a Severe Cold

"Last August I took a very severe cold and it seemed that I couldn't break it up. I got so bad that I was confined to my bed for five weeks, doctoring all the time without getting any relief. I had no appetite, naturally lost flesh. In fact, I had given up all hopes of ever getting any better.

"A friend recommended Milks Emulsion and I commenced its use. When able to leave my bed I weighed 111 pounds. Now, after taking Milks Emulsion five weeks, I weigh 125 pounds, feel better than I have felt in two years, can eat anything, have no effects of the cold and work every day. I thank God and Milks Emulsion for restoring my health." MRS. MARGARET WASHINGTON, 1899 E. 14th St., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Deputy Collectors To Assist Taxpayer

The Collector of Internal Revenue, Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, announced this week that plans are being made to receive the usual number of income tax returns expected in February and the first two weeks in March.

The assignment of deputy collectors will not be made until the second week in February when a definite itinerary will be furnished so that taxpayers may then secure the assistance of deputy collectors in preparation of their returns. Mrs. Reinecke suggests that the taxpayers who plan to file may save some considerable time if they will fill out their returns as completely as possible before visiting the deputy collector, as he will be too busy in handling other returns to do all the clerical work for the taxpayer. The Collector would appreciate the exercise of thoughtfulness by taxpayers in printing out their names at the top of the schedules and suggests that the first name be given in full for purpose of ready identification. A service bureau was recently established in Room 555, Federal Building, Chicago, and is now aiding taxpayers in submitting their schedules in the approved manner.

Mrs. Reinecke said, "There are no material changes in the forms this year, so we are confidently looking forward to the receipt of an increased proportion of correctly prepared returns." The Collector pointed out that only such minor changes were made in the printed forms as were necessary to conform with the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1928.

In the form number 1040, often referred to as "the large form", for example the amount of the earned net income which may be claimed has been increased from $20,000 to $30,000. In the corporation form No. 1120, the specific credit has been increased from $2,000 to $3,000 and the rate reduced from 13 1/2 to 12 per cent. Only a few minor changes were made in form 1040-A, the return used by individuals having a net income of less than $5,000.

CAPITAL'S DAILY TELEPHONE CALL TOTAL MOUNTS

Washington's Average is 60,000 a Day Higher Than it Was One Year Ago

Not all the talking in Washington, D. C., is done in the houses of Congress.

During the past year telephone calls in the capital city of the nation increased on an average of 60,000 a day, so that now, such telephone calls figure up to about 620,000 a day as compared to an average of only 560,000 a year ago. The event in 1927 which placed the greatest strain upon the Washington telephone service was the tornado of November 17, when a total of 650,000 calls were made. The day previous to the arrival of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh saw a total of 630,000 calls.

There are now 145,000 telephones in Washington or one to every 3.5 persons. This represents a net gain of 44,000 in the last five years, which is the equivalent of 42.5 per cent. In 1911, during the administration of President Taft, there were only 43,387 telephones connected with the Washington switchboard. During the administration of President Coolidge, however, as many telephones have been added to the system as there were in service thirty-three years after the first central office in Washington was established in 1878.

There are now twelve central offices in the capital city as compared with six in 1911. The Washington system includes 530,000 miles of wire, 90 per cent. of which is underground.

TINLEY PARK

While Henry Hase was in Homewood Monday night he saw a rather suspicious looking man near the I. C. depot. A policeman later asked Mr. Hase if he had seen this man and he told him he had seen him at the depot. The stranger was picked up as a suspect in the Blue Island murder case.

The P. T. A., will hold their regular monthly meeting Friday.

Relatives in St. Louis of Richard Scharf who disappeared from Tinley Park nearly two years ago, have sought information from Tinley people as to his whereabouts. The last time relatives saw him in St. Louis was a year ago last September. He had said he was going to New Orleans.

Miss Aerial Reiber entertained the girls 500 club Thursday.

The village board will meet next Monday evening. The chief matter to be discussed will be the zoning ordinance.

The Lions Club meets next Monday evening. A large number of Chicago home seekers were out Sunday at the Elmore sub division south of town and quite a number of new deals were closed it is said. About twenty-five automobiles were seen in the subdivision at one time.

Wm. Wannemacher is drilling wells in the new Elmore subdivision.

Causes of Auto Accidents Many

Increased almost 2,000 per cent since prohibition. In the first year that the Volstead act was in force there were 115 intoxicated drivers arrested. This year, it is reported, there will be 2,000 or more.

A driver's license for every person operating an automobile on Missouri roads, and a highway patrol system, will be the two principal recommendations of the Missouri Association for Street and Highway Safety to the 1929 legislature.

A maximum fee of 50 cents for the driver's license would be placed by the association, although leaders expect it might be even as low as 25 cents.

All persons securing a license would be required to make affidavit of their ability to drive and of their physical fitness. In case of physical defects or any other reason preventing the person from being a safe driver, the license could be revoked, upon the discovery of the defect.

Six violations of the law are credited with being the most common causes of automobile accidents. The official report of New York state, which the Chicago Motor Club cites as typical, shows that last year the most common violations were: Did not have the right of way, 42 per cent; on wrong side of road, 16 per cent; exceeding speed limit, 13 per cent; drive off roadway, 16 per cent; failed to signal, 6 per cent; cutting in 6 per cent; other violations 7 per cent.
